THE UNHAPPY PARK BOARD.

A QUORUM AT LENGTH CONSENSING TO BE CONSIDERED PRESENT.

The Mysterious Stranger and Mr. Otific-Park-Flecting a Superlutendent of Parks. The gentlemen of the Park Board held a special meeting restorday. Mr. Barker, the pretary of the Board, whose resomblance to the late William H. Seward has startled many an old New Yorker, were a quizzieal smile as the hour approached for the meeting of the unhappy four. It had been called to consider the plans of Mr. J. Wrey Month, supervising architect, for the Morningside Park.

Mr. Dwight H. Olmstead, representing the property owners about the park, was present lmost as early as the Secretary, backed by several prosperous-looking property owners. Mr. Wales walked briskly in a little later, and, after talking for a moment, took his seat. Mr. Lane followed. He hung of his coat with great care.

This was literally true, for at that moment Mr. Vales was gliding through one door, and Mr. Lane was marching through another, while Mr. Olliffe, propped up by the small near-sighted gentleman, was endeavoring to explain the situation to the property holders.

After a weary wait of nearly two hours Mr. MacLean waiked calmly in, dismissed the small near-sighted gentleman, and, winding his legs around the arm of his chair, gazed blandly at the wall. He took the chair and announced that the Board was ready to hear Mr. Olmstead. Here Mr. Mould, the supervising architect, was introduced.

Gentlemen," said Mr. Olmstead, "more than ten years ago the law ordered the building of Morningside Park. Out of regard for your feelings I will not mention the fact that the tax-payers of New York have been assessed for that purpose to the extent, with interest, of $1,500.000; nor will I aliude to the fact that we have receatedly prayed you to do something. I will say that the work should be done, however. Eh. Mould?" "said Mr. Mould.

"Ah-ha," said Mr. Mould.

I therefore, gentlemen, ask you to adopt less plans, which were made by a man in every lay competent and capable. Eh, Mould?" "Ah-na,"

"Ai-ha," said Mr. Mould, and he laid his plans before the Board.
After some discussion it was voted that the work be done on the west side of Morningside Park, from 110th to to 123d streets, inclusive.
Then a motion was made by Mr. Waies to appoint Mr. Aneurin Jones, specially recommended by Postmaster-General James, as Superintendent of Parks.

"There you go," said Mr. Lane. "Who is he? What is he? Am I to vote for a man whom I know nothing about?"

"Mr. MacLean and I have examined him and found him thoroughly competent," said Mr. Waies.

"I suppose he may be some politician," said

"Rooms for Rent" at the B'jou Opera House. The four acts of "Rooms for Rent," the play from the German which was produced at the Bijou Opera House last evening, were like four old-fashioned English farces very slightly connected. Nearly three hours of tireless enconnected. Nearly three hours of tireless endeavors to induce laughter were made by the industrious performers; but the expedients at their command were not often such as to render success possible. A

JOHN M'CULLOUGH'S RETURN. His Impressions of Fuglish Andleaces and of

The steamship Arizona arrived off Sandy Hook yesterday at 7:50 A. M., after the most boisterous summer passage that she ever experionced. For five days she had head winds and a high sea, and for a large part of the time was enshrouded in fog, yet the trip from Liverpool was made in seven days and twenty hours. Among those on board was John McCullough, the actor, who has been having a suc-ee sful and profitable senson in London.

Mr. McCullough was found at the Sturtevant House in the afternoon. His first trip to Lon-House in the afternoon. His first trip to London had not transformed him into an Englishman, and the only English thing observable about him was his business suit of gray mixed goods. My visit to London was delightful, he said. In my month's engagement at Drury Lane Theatre, in which I played only as Vargunius and Othello, my support was unausily groot. You know it's a rare thing to find good actors unoccupied in the height of the London theatrical season. Then, after my engagement was finished. I played in benefits for Miss Jennie Lee, John L. Toole, and E. H. Brooke.

"How did English audiences impress you?" They are far more enthusiastic appliaders than the Americans, and they have the picest feeling toward American actors. Then, too, it would be impossible to treat any one better than the English actors treat American actors, both on and off of the stage, All the Englishmen I met were charming; there is a peculiar crust about them, though, but that soon wears off."

"You saw Irving on the stage?"

"Yes, I was fortunate in seeing Irving and Booth play together, Irving has done much to raise the standard of the dramatic art in England. He overthrows a good many of the conventionalities. I do not believe he will come to American art ienst not for a good white, because he has taken his theatre at a long lease. Mr. Booth left a delightful impression in Europe, and his name is more admired than ever."

"When are you to begin the season?"

"I shall open at St. Paul in 'Virginius' on Sept. 5, and, after visiting Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, and Pittsburgh, shall make my bow to the New York public at the Fifth Avenue Theatre on Nov. 14."

Mr. A. M. Palmer, Mr. Lawrence Barrett, and the Right Hon. Marquis de Lenville were among the Arizona's passengers. don had not transformed him into an English CHICAGO, Aug. 15 .- An effort was made today by the lines loading eastward from Chicago to carry out the instructions of Commissioner Fink for the restoration of freight rates on the 22d inst. The meeting was attended by the local freight representatives of the Michigan Central, Michigan Southern, Pennsylvania, Grand Trunk, and Baltimore and Ohio. Mr. Mackay, Secretary of the pool, read, the order received from Mr. Fink, and Mr. Harrfott of the Baitimore and Ohio moved for the restoration of rates. Capt. C. M. Mr. Mackay announced that he was present as the representative of the Michigan Central, but was not instructed with reference to the order for the restoration of rates.

MASSACRED BY INDIANS.

All but Two of the Inhabitants of a Mexican Village Slaughtered.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.-Special despatches to the Times from Las Vegas, New Mexico, dated Aug. 14, say: Meagre news reached this city at a late hour last night that the Apaches had swooped down on a small Mexican village, eighteen miles from Rio Purco, a point on the Atlantic and Pacific Railway, and murdered twenty-seven out of the twenty-nine inhabitants. The two Mexicaus who made their escape were nearly exhausted when they reached the railnearly exhausted when they reached the railroad, and had their horses shot down from under them before they got out of reach of the Indians. From the scanty news attainable, on account of the broken telegraphic communication, it appears that the Apaches completely surrounded the vinage, thus making escape for the doomed inhabitants impossible. The track of the Indians on their outward march through the wilderness is continually marked with murder and bloodshed, and the justly indignant citizens of this section of the country demand that the Government put a large force of troops in the field immediately, and wipe entirely out of existence the red devis who are committing such terrible slaughter and atrocates among the whitee and Mexicans.

SANTA FE, Aug. 14.—Mr. Charles S, Gough came to this town yesterday afternoon with the came to this town yesterday afternoon with the report that he was attacked by seven Apache Indians sixteen miles from here, on the road to Wallace; that he killed one and wounded three others, escaping without a wound, but with his hat full of holes. The Sheriff and a posse of men have gone out to the scene of the fight, and will report to-morrow.
